

G Square Invests in C.D.C Complete tandzorg

London, June 23, 2015 – G Square, a London-based private equity firm dedicated to investing in buy-out and expansion capital in European mid-cap healthcare companies, announces an investment in C.D.C. Complete tandzorg, a leading provider of complex dental care services in the Netherlands.

C.D.C. focuses on complex dental treatments and care for patients with special needs. It specializes in the construction, placement and maintenance of dental prosthesis such as bridges, crowns, dentures, click dentures, and dental implants, attracting patients from all across the Netherlands. The company operates 18 treatment (non-anaesthetic) and 4 anaesthetic rooms within 2 facilities and employs approximately 55 employees.

Eric and Rob Dral, founders and managers of CDC: "The pan-European healthcare and especially dental care experience of G Square is very attractive for us. We believe G Square is the perfect partner and will be able to support us in our growth objectives."

Dr. Laurent Ganem, founder and Chief Executive Officer of G Square: "We are delighted to invest in CDC and look forward to working together with its highly knowledgeable and experienced management. The anaesthetic centre and patient-oriented approach made CDC become a thriving dental care provider with a unique market position. We are very impressed with what has been achieved so far and believe that management has the capability to successfully replicate the model to other locations in the Netherlands."
